BEDUCES ANNUAL APPROPRIA-TIONS BY $23,000.

Passes Bill Increasing Salaries of New York City Aldermen to $2,000 and Bill Appropriating $200,000 to Buy Land to the Adirondacks and Catskills.

ALBANY; March 26 .- The charges made that the economies practised by Majority Leader Moreland of the Assembly in preparing the annual appropriation bill would render it necessary to add additional mounts to the bill before it could be passed prove to have been without foundation. To-night the Senate Finance Committee, which has been considering the bill since it ed the Assembly, reported the bill to the Senate with a further reduction of the Senate with a further reduction of $33,000. The reductions mean that the State officers will not generally get increases in salaries in lieu of expenses, as has been the case, and that economy will have to be observed in many of the offices where there have been extravagances. While some thousands of dollars in appropriations were added by the Senate Finance Committee, it cut out enough appropriations as passed by the Assembly to accomplish the net reduction stated.

The committee made a number of changes in the bill. One of the items that the committee reinserted in the bill, which had been stricken out by the Assembly Ways been stricken out by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, was an appropriation of $18,500 for the State Inspector of Gas Meters. This is for the department presided over by Jastrow Alexander of New York city. The Assembly committee struck out the appropriation because it thought that the State Lighting Commission should perform the work of Mr. Alexander's department.

Assemblyman Storrs's bill increasing the salary of the members of the New York city Board of Aldermen from $1,000 to $2,000 a year passed the Assembly to-night. Majority Leader Moreland called attention to the fact that this was a salary increase

A Committee to Go Over the Agricultural Department and Spare No One.

WASHINGTON; March 26 .- A searching investigation of the Department of Agriculture will be begun to-morrow under the direction of a committee of the House of Representatives. The announcement is made in behalf of the House Committee on Expenditure in the Agricultural Department that the committee will go over the Department with a fine tooth comb. Representative Littlefield of Maine is chairman of the committee that will have charge of the proposed inquiry.

Accompanied by the members of the House committee, Chairman Littlefield will make a visit to the Department to-morrow, where he will have a conference with Secretary Wilson and Assistant Secretary where he will have a conference with Secretary Wilson and Assistant Secretary Hays. He will take a look around the Department with a view to ascertaining whether there is anything worth an investigation. Then he will begin to investigate; aided by his colleagues on the committee. Secretary Wilson has already assured Chairman Littlefield a most cordial welcome and has figuratively thrown the doors of the Department open to him.

Outwardly this would seem to be little more than a formal affair, but large possibilities are already looming up. While Chairman Littlefield is disinclined to discuss just what he intends to do in the Department of Agriculture, it is known that he will pay some attention to the crop reporting service, the Bureau of Animal Industry, the Bureau of Plant Industry, the Weather Bureau and, in fact, every bureau in the great department over which Secretary Wilson presides. He intends to investigate without regard to what the Keep Commission or anybody else has done, and without fear or favor. Neither the Secretary nor the humblest clark will be spared.

WASTE IN PUBLIC PRINTING. Joint Congress Committee Points Out Ways to Save Money, WASHINGTON, March 26.—A preliminary report on the subject of public printing was to-day presented to the Senate by Chairman Platt of the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing.

The committee also submitted two joint resolutions, with the object of carrying into effect their recommendations for reform in two directions. The first is in regard to the distribution of documents by Senators and Representatives. Under the existing system each member of either body is allotted the same number of copies of a publication, without the slightest regard to the needs of his constituents.

Thus the North Dakota Representatives have the same quots of reports on citrus fruits as have the Florida members, and the members from the thickly populated impeachment proceedings against Judge Swayne, which oest $5,729, and to the fact that 7,100 copies remain undistributed, with no probability of a future demand. To print the saving would have been $2,684. The bound Congressional Records for the second session of the Fifty-eighth Congress comprised 93,100 volumes, costing $122,323, of which 61,565 volumes are undistributed. second edition would entail an extra cost A second edition would entail an extra cost of $1,225. This saving would be $75,115.

The second recommendation of the committee is that the printing for the various executive departments over which there is no supervision be placed under control of the Public Printer, as a sound business proposition which would result in a great saving.

The House to-day considered the question of printing reform recommended by the joint committee. It first took up the joint resolution introduced by Mr. Landis of Indians on Saturday, authorizing the joint committee to determine and fix the number of copies of the editions of Gov-erment publications.

Mr. Landis said the joint committee believed that the changes suggested would result in the saving of a million dollars in the printing bill in the first year of their roll call, and every New York city members operation.

The Senate to-night passed the Senate bill appropriating $200,000 to buy additional land in the Adirondack and Catakill regions;

The printing bill in the Adiron was passed; also one releving the appropriation for Congressional printing from being charged with the cost of any department reports or documents, except for that portion of the edition distributed by Congress. This, it is exalthough but $2,500 is to be spent in the distributed by Congress. This, it is expected, will work a very substantial decrease in the amount of printing ordered by the several departments.

GEN WOOD'S MILEAGE.

His Travelling Expenses From Manila and Back Paid on President's Order.

WASHINGTON, March 26.-Secretary Taft explained to the Military Affairs Committee of the Senate to-day the mileage and expense account allowed to Gen, Leonard Wood and his aide on account of Gen. Wood's trip from Manila to Boston summer to undergo a surgical operation; and the return via London. The information was elicited by Senator Overman (Dem.; N. C.), who brought out the fact also that Gen. H. C. Corbin had rendered an account for mileage allowances when he returned to the United States, which had been approved by the War Department.

Secretary Taft said that the total allowance to Gen. Wood amounted to $3,600. Gen. Wood first asked for leave of absence to come to the United States without stating the object of his visit and it was allowed, but later, when it was learned that the object of his coming was to undergo a surgical operation, the was to undergo a surgical operation, the order was changed to put Gen. Wood on duty and allow him expenses, a practice that prevails in the army in cases where officers go to the hospital for treatment. Gen. Wood returned by way of London en orders of the President, who desired him to consult an eminent English surgeon, and under orders of the President the expenses were not desired.

Secretary Taft said that an error was discovered in allowing expenses on the trip over, and the order was modified to cut, out expenses via Hongkong and compute them direct from Manila to Boston. Mr. Taft said the President was responsible for Gen. Wood's return via London, the General having been desirous of going back across the Pacific until the President ordered him to London for treatment.

"Is that the only instance where an officer was allowed mileage while travelling on an ocean liner?" inquired Senator Over-

"It is not," replied the Secretary with a smile, "Gen. Corbin asked mileage when he travelled on the Manchuria, but it ras disallowed."

There were a number of questions propounded by Democratic Senators in an effort to bring out the cause of Gen. Wood's injury and the nature of the accident, but these were afterward ordered struck from the record of the hearing.

PROHIBITS RAILROADS FROM ISSUING PASSES.

Another Prohibits Them, Under Heavy ine, From Contributing to Campaign Funds-Amendments to He Voted On Five or Six Days Before Vote on Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 26 .- Indications that the debate in the Senate on the Hepburn rate bill was flagging prompted Mr. Tilhnan, in charge of that measure, to give notice to-day that he would to-morrow ask that a day be fixed for a final vote on its passage and that five or six days prior thereto be devoted to the consideration of amendments under the ten minute rule.

This announcement followed a set speech delivered by Mr. Overman of North Carolina, who favored a court review provision; and the discussion which then arose over amendments proposed by Senator Foraker to provide penalties for giving passes and by Senator Culberson to prohibit campaign contributions by railroads. Neither of these amendments received action because; according to the custom that has grown up; it was supposed they would be disposed of on the day of the final vote on the bill and many Senators in that belief were absent. Mr. Tillman hoped that the Senate to-morrow would be prepared to consider and dispose of some of the pending amend-

Mr. Foraker proposed an amendment prohibiting under penalty of fine up to $1,000 any railroad from issuing passes to any one except its own employees, and providing that the private cars of the officers of one road should not be hauled free on other roads, but should pay the same as others for like service. He asked Mr. Tillman, in charge of the bill, if he would accept the amendment. Mr. Tillman, recalling the peculiar conditions under which the bill was reported, doubted-his power to accept amendments on behalf of the committee. He favored the amendment, however. Messrs. Culberson and Fulton having suggested that free tickets and free transportation be added to the prohibition, Mr. Tillman remarked that Mr. La Follette also had in process of incubation an anti-pass provision far more drastic than those already proposed. He suggested that Messrs. Foraker, Culberson, Fulton and La Follette get together, agree upon a separate bill prohfbiting passes and have it passed by unanimous consent. The suggestion, however, was not accepted and the amendment went over.

The same fate met an amendment proposed by Mr. Culberson prohibiting railroads under $10,000 fine from contributing to campaign funds, in addition to fines double their contributions and imprisonment for offending officials.

A long discussion of the method of procedure with regard to amendments followed, more than a dozen Senators contributing. Mr. Tillman, out of regard to the absent Senators, thought no amendments should be voted on to-day, they supposing, on the strength of custom, that that order would not be reached until the day fixed for voting on the bill.

It dayslored, however, that the rules

It developed, however, that the rules permitted amendments to be acted on at any time. He therefore gave notice that to-morrow he would suggest, if the Senate were in a businesslike mood, that some of the numerous amendments be taken up, discussed and disposed of. He did not like the usual method of disposing of the amendments be taken up, the hill was young the did not like the usual method of disposing of the amendments or the day the hill was young amendments on the day the bill was voted on—shooting them like birds." He there-fore proposed that two or three days before the final vote on the bill be devoted to the consideration of amendments under the ten minute rule.

Mr. Hale of Maine thought the time Mr. Hale of Maine thought the time should be enlarged to five or six days, and spoke of the amendments, some of them being of even greater importance than the bill itself. He suggested that Mr. Tillman prepare an order fixing the time at five or six days and prescribing the manner of considering the products.

This was accepted by Mr. Tillman, who gave notice that to-morrow, when there was a full attendance of Senators, he would propose it, and would also ask the Senate to fix a date for taking a final vote on the Harburg kill

The day's debate was closed by Mr. Teller of Colorado with some remarks against the distorical attacks of certain magazines upon the Senate for failure to pass the Esch-Townsend bill last session and the supposed delay in passing the Hepburn bill.

ASSEMBLY REAPPORTIONMENT.

Odell Trying to Fix It So That He Can Control New York County Committee. ALBANY, March 26 .- General indignation exists in legislative circles over the desperate efforts being made by Benjamin B. Odell Jr., to manipulate the reapportionment the New York city Assembly districts so that he can get control of the New York county Republican committee. It has been decreed that the only two matters of specia importance that will keep the Legislature here are the insurance bills and the reapportionment bill. But for the fight that Odell is waging in New York city the reapportionment bill would be in the possession of the Legislature before this, but until it can be seen how matters are to turn out in New York city the legislative committee appointed to arrange the reapportionment under the last State census can do nothing.

With the aid of William Halpin, Lemuel Ely Quigg, William H. Ten Eyck and a few others, Odell is now trying to take the reapportionment out of the hands of Herbert Parsons. But the interference of the State chairman in this matter may prove to be his undoing quicker than he realizes. Tonight John Gunner, leader of the Twentyeighth New York city district, is in Albany. Mr. Gunner is also a port warden. Others are expected to come to Albany this week. They will consult with Gov. Higgins, and Mr. Odell's schemes will be neatly nipped in the bud. Mr. Odell and his assistants are endeavoring to map out the reapportionment in the upper districts of New ork city, so that the Odell men will be benefited and the anti-Odell men will be inconvenienced. Several of the downtown districts are to be abolished and increases made in the upper part of the county where the heaviest increase in population has occurred.

- Senator Alfred R. Page, first vice-president of the Republican county committee, has served notice upon the Odell men that he willregard any action taken by the county ne willregard any action taken by the county committee as merely advisory, but in spite of this warning the leaders of the Odell faction will try to defeat him through the aid of the Odell leaders in the Senate. Senator Page is the New York county members on Reapportionment. There are Members on Reapportonment. There are three Odell men on this committee.

A sub-committee on reapportionment was appointed by the executive committee. but it contains one or two Odell men. Every step it has taken has been transmitted to Mr. Odell, who has immediately sent for the leaders whose districts are threatened with disjunction and has promised to prowith elimination and has promised to protect them. He called a general conference of the leaders in New York city last week in the hope of forming a combination that would recommend his own scheme of apportionment. In spite of the election of Mr. Parsons, Odell has always controlled the Republican executive committee and the Republican executive committee, and it is through this body that he is acting. No time has been set for the report of the sub-committee, but measures are being taken in Albany to convince some of the leaders who are inclined to side with Odell that it will be to their interests to stand by

NO TARIFF REVISION THIS YEAR.

WASHINGTON, March 26 .- That THE ASSEMBLY. be no effort looking to any revis tariff at this session was practically by Chairman Payne of the Comm Ways and Means, when, in respon request made by Mr. McCall of Mass setts, a member of the committee, for a hearing of the members of the Massauhusetts delegation in favor of a readjustment of the tariff, he expressed the opinion that a majority of the committee were opposed to a revision at this time. Mr. Payne's reply

Yours of the 21st inst. reached me last evenng. You refer me to the declaration of the Massachusetts platform and also of the naional Republican platform. I am thoroughly in sympathy with the announcement in the national platform that rates of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interests demand their alteration. The question now presents itself as to whether the conditions are now such that the public interest demands a change This question can only be settled practically by the concurrent view of the najority of the party in power and responsible for legislation.

House who believe that a few changes should be made, and still another group or groups who believe the changes demanded by the other group injurious, but that the tariff should be changed in regard to other items in the schedules, I think you will agree with me that a majority of the Republicans in the House do not concur in the opinion that there hould be a general revision of the tariff.

While there is a majority of Republican members who concur that the tariff should be amended in some few items, there is a smaller the tariff should be entered upon at the present ession of Congress.

Our people have not forgotten the dishonest opponents at the election in 1890, following within a month the final passage of the McKinley bill and the unfortunate results of that election. The resulting change of policies was especially disastrous to the business and labor interests of the country through the years that followed. Surely we ought not to peat the experiment in the year 1906.

Congress is not prepared to review the tariff schedules in that calm, judicial frame of mind so necessary to the proper preparaion of a tariff act at a time so near the coming Congressional elections. The Dingley bill was the most successful ever enacted. Its practical results were so evident to the counry during the eighteen months that elapsed etween its passage and the next election that the people have continued the policy of that bill to the present day. It would be unfortunate should any precipitate action in the future result in a temporary reversal of the policy of protection in the United States.

While it is true that some improvement could well be made in the rates under the Dingley bill it was probably as free from defects at the time of its passage as any new law which could now be enacted. During the nine years of its operation the country has enjoyed prosperity unparalleled, a prosperity which at the present time is simply marvellous. We may well hesitate to take any chance of interrupting the business of the country by a general revision of the tariff, and we should never enter upon it until we are satisfied that such a revision will accomplish results far outweighing any well grounded apprehension of business depression and consequent evil results which would ome, even temporarily, from such revision.

gation that it would be best at the present session of Congress to enter upon a consideration of the tariff with a view to its revision and readjustment. While this is my individual opinion I have reason to believe that it is also the judgment of a decided majority of the Committee on Ways and Means. SERENO E. PAYNE.

HE REPEAL BILL ATTACKED IN

It Provides for a Recording Tax and Mr. Wade Says It Was Conceived to Evade Paying the Tax Under the Present Law-Bill Put Over Until Wednesday.

ALBANY, March 26.-Assemblyman Wade of Chautauqua, stung to anger because of his inability to keep the bill placing a recording tax on mortgages and repealing the present annual Mortgage Tax law in his committee on taxation, to-night made sensational charges in the Assembly chamber when the Recording Tax bill came up on the order of second reading. Mr. Wade's main charge was that the people who had taken mortgages on demand were behind the bill placing a recording tax on mortgages in order to evade payment of the mortgage tax under the law of last year. He offered as an amendment that all taxes on mortgages due until June 30 next shall be paid the same as if the law was in force.

Assemblyman Dowling (Rep., Brooklyn) refused to accept the amendment. Mr. Wade said that he would fight the bill in its present form until he had either amended or defeated it. He called the Dowling bill the most obnoxious bill that has come before the Legislature this session.

I know the source from which it emanated. I know in what organization, that has resorted to every known ingenuity to escape the provisions of the Mortgage Tax law, this bill was conceived. The Ailied Real Estate Owners Association is behind this bill. For what purpose? They would not be for any bill that did not permit an evasion of the Mortgage Tax law. Take the trust companies, the savings banks and the money lenders of the State. They are holding off the tax payments on the mortgages they hold until June 30 next. Adopt my amendment and see how they will be for this bill. Go into the city of Syracuse. The trust companies there have loaned $900,000 on mortgages and have paid $134 taxes, waiting until June 30 to make the remaining payments if this bill does not become a law. The savings banks of that city have also loaned $000,000 on mortgages and they have paid $114 so far

Is this bill in the interests of the borrowers? Not much. Last year when three Senators and myself were framing the Mortgage Tax law a representative of the Allied Real Estate Owners Association came to us. We had finally placed a provision in the bill which would prevent the borrower from being compelled to pay the tax. The opposition until that time had been crying that the bor-rower would have to bear the additional burden of the tax. We took care of that in the bill. Then this representative of the Allied Real Estate Owners Association said: Take out that provision and we will support

Mr. Wade charged that the money lenders were taking mortgages on demand and not paying the tax, waiting until June 30 next to see if it is made necessary to pay such taxes, but expecting that the Dowling bill will go through and they will escape

Assemblyman Agnew interrupted to ask a question, adding to the question: "The gentlemen has made so many statements concerning mortgage taxes that have not come true."

Mr. Wade took offence at this, insisting that Mr. Agnew had intimated that he had made false statements.

Mr. Agnew apologized and said that he Mr. Agnew apologized and said that he should have said predictions instead of Assemblyman Patton of Erie also offered an amendment which would strike out the provisions in the Dowling bill which provides that under this proposed recording tax law there shall be no exemptions.

After some payloging the bill was finally After some parleying the bill was finally put over until Wednesday. Mr. Wade promises to make some additional disclosures regarding the efforts to repeal the mortgage tax law An interesting bit of legislative gossip was going the rounds of the Assembly chamber to-night. The Committee on Taxation, of which Mr. Wade is chairman, is composed mainly of members who are opposed to the Mortgage Tax law. Mr. Wade regarded this as an affront to him when the committee was made up, for he realized that he would be unable to prevent a bill repealing the Mortgage Tax law from

in a Memorandum. ALBANY, March 26 .- The Saxe-Stanley bill, providing for the removal of the New York Central railroad tracks from Eleventh avenue, was signed by the Governor this afternoon. Gov. Higgins accompanied his signature with the following memorandum:

The immediate purpose of this bill is to equire the New York Central Railroad to remova its tracks from the surface of Eleventh avenue in said city, and so to terminate the present use of said avenue by said railroad, which is now operated by steam locomotive power at grade. No one contends that the company should continue indefinitely to enjoy its present privileges, which are admitted to be a menace to public safety. It a desirable to move at once in the right direction toward the accomplishment of a plain duty, if the bill is not fatally defective. The bill is objected to on constitutional and engineering grounds. It is said that it is a local act which embraces more than one subject, and that it therefore contravenes the provisions of the Constitution that "no local bill shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title" (Constitution, article 111, section 16). If, however, the provisions relating to the collateral subject are not in any way connected with or dependent upon the main subject and may be stricken out. leaving the residue of the act complete and sensible and capable of being executed, the act with the void provisions eliminated is valid. The objection, if any, which exists on this ground is not fatal to the main purpose of the bill. The bill provides for proper compensation and due process of law, and while it imposes a heavy burden upon the railroad company by compelling it to construct a subway or leave the avenue entirely, is must be remem-bered that said company has for many years past enjoyed the use of a principal thoroughfare of the city of New York for its railroad tracks, in derogation of the rights of the public and in a manner necessarily interfering with the legitimateuse of the avenue as a highway, and fraught with danger to life and limb. Railroad companies obtaining such privileges do so at the risk of losing them after years enjoyment, when conditions as to popula-tion change and that which was perhaps excusable in the first instance becomes an intolerable abuse. In measuring the equities of the present it is well to consider the special advantages enjoyed in the past. I am not seriously concerned with the engineering problems presented in the plan for a proposed subway. If such plan is impracticable, by reason of expense or other conditions, the company is not required to undertake impossibilities, but it may take its racks entirely out of the avenue. If it elects to do so it will receive compensation for all lawfully existing privileges which are hereby taken from it.

SHOT GIRL AND HIMSELF. Restaurant Keeper's Daughter Wouldn't Marry Waiter-He's Dead; She May Die.

Vincenzo Carpignano, 24 years old and until two weeks ago a waiter, shot and wounded Louisa Franchini, daughter of Giuseppe Franchini, pro-prietor of the Café Rivoli at 108 West Thirtyeighth street, yesterday morning and then shot and killed himself. Carpignano was a waiter in the Hotel St. Regis until he met Louisa Franchini two months ago. He fell in love with her and left the St. Regis to be a waiter in Franchini's oafé. His suit was distasteful to the girl and her mother, but Carpignano was persistent. Finally, two weeks ago he was discharged. Since that time he has haunted the neighborhood and inter cepted the girl on the street whenever she appeared. Sunday night he met her as she was on her way to call on a girl friend. "If you do not elope with me I will kill you," he said, and showed her a revolver. Louisa Franchini got away from the man and told her mother. Carpignano disappeared into a café. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning he went into the Café Rivoli. His clothes were dishevelled and he looked as though he had been drinking. In the restaurant at the time were Theresa Rinaldi, a waitress, and Henry

Barbour, a waiter. Carpignano called for something to eat and for some drinks. Louisa Franchini, who acts as chashier went to the back room of the café when she saw Carpignano coming in and she told the waiter to call her father.

"I want to see your mother and not your father," Carpignano called out. "I know that she is going to take you to Italy, as your father is going to got out of this business. I want to say good-by."

Louisa Franchini had come out into the Louisa Franchini had come out into the front room by that time and was about to press a button which connected with her mother's room, when Carpignano jumped up from the table and made a rush toward the girl, who stood perfectly still. He seemed to be in a frenzy of rage. He whipped out a .38 calibre revolver and fired. The bullet took effect in the girl's side and she fell. Carpignano fired another shot which went wild. He then turned the revolver against his right temple and fired. The shot killed him instantly.

The café was in an uproar by this time The café was in an uproar by this time and it was some time before any one had presence of mind enough to call an ambulance. Dr. Shenshone answered a call from the New York Hospital. The girl was taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

Carpignano had a furnished room at 234 West Twenty-fifth street with a family by the name of Porgia. According to the Porgias Carpignano came of a well to do family of Turin, Italy, and was well edufamily of Turin, Italy, and was well edu-cated. He was an artist but found that he could not make enough money with his brush and became a waiter

CHANGES IN BALLOT LAW. Separate Tally Sheets for Each Office and

New Rules for Counting.

ALBANY, March 26 .- The action of Senator John Raines to-night would indicate that the official ballot as used in this State is not to be changed except in some minor particulars. Senator Raines likes to be referred to as the father of ballot reform in this State, and refuses to even consider amendments to the election law which do not emanate from his fertile brain. Tonight he introduced amendments to the election law, but he practically leaves the blanket official ballot unchanged except in regard to independent nominations. Where a person is nominated by two or more parties or independent bodies for an office to which two or more are to be elected, the name of such person shall be printed on the same line on the ballot under the title of the office, irrespective of the order in which the names were certified by the nominating bodies. This is to cure the situation of last fall in New York county, where the Supreme Court judges, renominated by the Republican and Democratic parties; were certified by the nominating convention in a different

Tel. 3420 Madison Sq.

The second change is as to independent nominations. It provides that the voting circle shall not be printed over the name of an independent party unless it has nominated candidates for a majority of the offices to be filled at the election. It further omoes to be filed at the election. It intrues of such independently nominated candidates shall be so arranged that they shall, so far as possible; be printed upon the same line as corresponding offices in the party columns. This would offset the advantage which it was always a positive Attempt Jerographics. was claimed District Attorney become had by having his name printed at the top of the column of independent nominations. The present rule is that names of candidates claimed District Attorney are arranged in the order in which nominating petitions are filed, unless, of course; the independent body nominates a complete ticket, in which case it has a separate

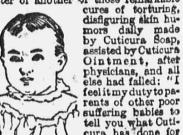

The old blank tally sheet is to be done away with and separate tally sheets for each office and each constitutional amendment are to be provided. New rules of the order for counting ballots are provided. The use of rough tally sheets and from which the return is to be copied into the official tally sheets; is forbidden and viola-tion of this provision is to be deemed a wilful neglect of duty.

BABY'S TORTURING SKIN HUMOR

Ears Looked as If They Would Drop Off-Body Entirely Covered-Face Mass of Sores - Three Doctors Could Not Cure - Child Grew Worse - Face and Body Now Clear

CURED BY CUTICURA IN TWO WEEKS FOR 75c.

Mrs. George J. Steese, of 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable tell you what Cuti-cura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recom-mended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of gores, and her little face was being eaten away; her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many collars on doctors and medicines without any
